Hi Cindy,

We are planning to submit comments to EPA regarding suggestions for what sources should be covered by the FIP and available technologies and/or practices to cover such sources. As part of that effort we plan to analyze all available emissions data to identify the largest sources of emissions in the Basin. Per your presentation, the 3 main sources of emissions data appear to be the WRAP inventory, Subpart W reports, and the registrations. The main piece of information contained in the registrations that we are interested in is the emissions, by source.

However, I could imagine that we may also want to know additional information such as the facility's operator and its location.

We are more than happy to work with EPA to make fulfilling the request manageable. Perhaps it would make sense to discuss this over the phone when you're back in the office? If so, is there a convenient time this week?

I have pinged the EDF science team regarding what studies/measurements EDF has undertaken in the Basin and will forward that information along to you just as soon as I have it.

Thanks very much,

Elizabeth

Elizabeth -

It would be helpful to clarify what EDF actually wants. If EDF is looking for emission data, they will need to submit a FOIA. It takes some work to put this information together, but we can provide it through programs we have available. If, however, EDF wants actual copies of the registrations, this will take more time and resources to provide.

Also, we do have a FOIA reading room that does not require a formal submittal. The information in the reading room is limited to facility name, location and operator based on the registrations.

Thanks,

Hi Cindy,

Thank you for your very helpful presentation on EPA's consideration of proposing a FIP to address emissions from existing oil and gas sources in the Uinta Basin. Per your presentation, EDF would like to obtain copies of the registrations submitted to EPA in 2013 in order to review the emissions reported therein. Could you kindly inform me as to the best way to obtain this information?

Thank you,

Elizabeth
